A BOOK OF IRRESISTIBLE HUMOR

Mr. Ford relates that when he first went into hotel work, being in "the first flush of early youth," he told Mr. Garrison, his employer, that he wanted to "learn the business thoroughly"—

"Well, Mr. Garrison looked me all over and took in the full details of my Gothic style of architecture," and he said: "Nature has not been very lavish to you in the matter of fleshly charms, but she has evidently intended you for some purpose, and in my opinion that purpose is to perfectly adapt you to going up a step-ladder, crawling over a transom and opening the door in case of suicide."

Whether this estimate was correct or not on the physical side, Mr. Ford was mentally destined to be a humorist. The book is delightfully funny, with something of the dry, humorous extravagance of Mark Twain's earlier work.

The great detective story of recent years

THE FILIGREE BALL

By Anna Katherine Green

One of the rare relaxations of the summer.

-The Bulletin.

An absorbingly interesting story, developed with all of the author's old-time skill.

—Review of Reviews.

No reader can lay it down until he has finished the last line.

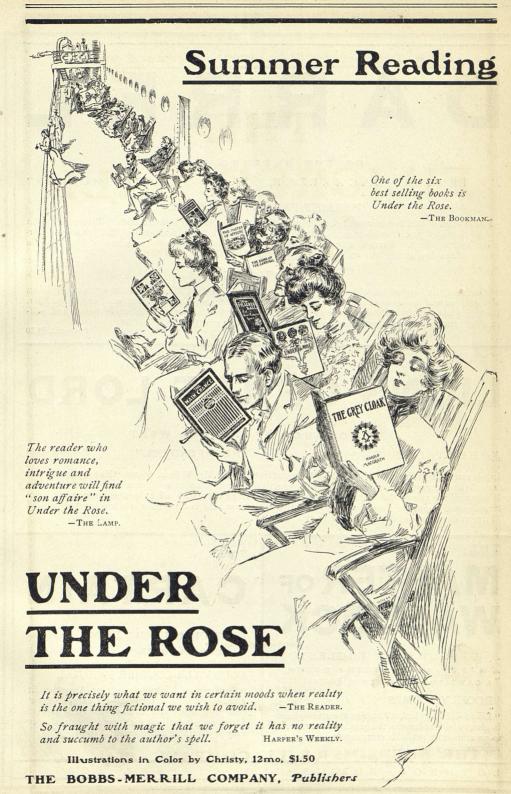

—Chicago Tribune.

If you have anything particular to do at a certain hour—such as catching a train—and you still have a little time left on your hands, don't read The Filigree Ball. If you do you will miss the train.

DARREL

OF THE BLESSED ISLES

By IRVING BACHELLER, Author of "EBEN HOLDEN"

HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD

"I have read of late few more delightful stories than 'Darrel of the Blessed Isles.' Entirely fresh in conception and plot, it leads one with gentle but absorbing interest and with skilfully managed surprises and incidents. There is a sweetness and strength about the whole book rarely found in the novels of the day, and in its own genre unsurpassed."

NEWALL DWIGHT HILLIS

"'Darrel of the Blessed Isles' is at once the latest and the best of Mr. Bacheller's stories. It is an idyl of love and the story of a great happiness that came through self-sacrifice and expiation. Mr. Bacheller has clothed life's simplicities with enduring charm and beauty, and made honor and self-sacrifice, truth and love, seem the only things that are really worth while."

THE

LIONS OF THE LORD

A ROMANCE OF THE OLD WEST

By HARRY LEON WILSON, Author of "THE SPENDERS."

Postpaid, $1.50

In his romance of the old West, "The Lions of the Lord," Mr. Wilson, whose "The Spenders" is one of the successes of the present year, shows an advance in strength and grasp both in art and life. It is a thrilling tale of the Mormon settlement of Salt Lake City, with all its grotesque comedy, grim tragedy, and import to American civilization. For the first time in a novel is the tragi-comedy of the Mormon development adequately set forth.

MASTER OF WARLOCK

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON Author of "DOROTHY SOUTH," "A CAROLINA CAVALIER" Postpaid, $1.50

BROOKLYN TIMES

"Like all Mr. Eggleston's stories, the atmosphere is clean and wholesome, the sentiment pure. It is an eminently readable story, whose characters are amiable, gentle folk."

LOUISVILLE COURIER JOURNAL

"Such a good book is a credit to American literature. To have recognized General Grant's true personality and to have placed it in such fitting scenes without sacrificing historical accuracy is a notable achievement."

NOTES IN SEASON.

JOHN LANE will publish in this country for the Vale Press a handsome reprint of "The the Vale Press a handsome reprint of "The Kingis Quair," edited by Robert Steele and composed in the King's Fount by Charles Ricketts. Mr. Lane has just ready, in The New Pocket Library, Anthony Trollope's "Framley Parsonage," one of the charming Cathedral group of Trollope's writings.

Dodd, Mead & Co. will publish "An April Princess," the first book by Miss Constance Smedley, a young English writer, whose work has been highly praised by the English press and also privately by Anthony Hope and Mrs. the press.

W. K. Clifford. Though only twenty-two years old, Miss Smedley, who was educated as an artist, has had a play produced by Mrs. Patrick Campbell, who has accepted another for production in the autumn.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have in preparation for early publication, "To California and Back," by C. A. Higgins and Charles A. Keeler, which describes the southern journey through New Mexico and Arizona, via the Grand Canon, to Southern California, and the way back through the Central West. The book will have about 150 illustrations. They also announce a collection of stories by Miss Annie Hobson entitled "In Old Alabama," dealing specially with negro characters.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation a work entitled "Select Statutes and Other Documents Illustrative of the History of the United States, 1861-1898," edited with notes by William MacDonald, Professor of History in Brown University. The volume follows the same general plan as the editor's "Select Charters" and "Select Documents." Like them, it is intended for use as a manual for students and teachers in colleges and universities, and as a book of reference for libraries and schools.

L. C. Page & Co. have just brought out a collection of verses by Charles G. D. Roberts, entitled "The Book of the Rose," with a frontispiece in colors; a new edition of Mr. Roberts's first volume of fiction, "Earth's Enigma," with several new stories, and ten illustrations by Charles Livingston Bull; also, two new volumes in the Cosy Corner Series—"Prince Yellowtop," by Kate Whiting Patch, illustrated by Etheldred B. Barry, and "The Little Christmas Shoe," by Jane Scott Woodruff, illustrated by Diantha W. Horne.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish shortly a new popular edition of the works of Thackeray, designed to meet a demand for an edition which shall be prepared in the best manner and sold at a low price. The volumes, twenty-five in number, will be bound in green cloth with wine-colored labels, and every detail is to be of guaranteed excellence. The set will contain over three hundred illustrations from drawings by the original illustrators of Thackeray's works-Leech, Cruikshank, Fildes, Du Maurier, and the rest, and by Thackeray himself.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have become the publishers' agents for the sixth edition of "Hints to Golfers," by Niblick. According to a notice prefixed to this edition, 250 copies of the book were contracted for on November 12, 1902. A month later the order was increased to 1000 copies, and on December 15 electrotypes were made. On December 18 a second edition, of 1000 copies, was ordered, and eight days later another edition of 1000 copies was ordered. Since January of this year three further editions of 1000 copies each were put upon the market, making a total of six thousand copies. The work is attractively gotten up, and has received unstinted recommendations from professional golfers and from

This volume is a study of the municipal development of a typical American city. It traces the politic ment of a typical American city. It traces the political, economic and social institutions of the people from the foundation of the settlement to the present time, and shows their effects upon the form of local administration and upon the local fiscal policy. It contains illustrations of the relation of state laws to local government, of forms of political leadership, of the method of granting local franchises to public service corporations, of the early laws of taxation of general property, of the laws of special assessments, and of the dominance of political influences in shaping the forms of local administration.

Mr. Tirebuck was born in Liverpool, but he had Welsh blood in his veins and his ambition was to become the novelist of Wales. A greater part of "Twixt God and mammon" has its scene in Wales. It is largely a love story.

The general scope and purpose of this book are in the main those of the series to which it belongs. The author, however, has adopted a rather broader scale of treatment, because he believes that the most characteristic feature of American literature is its "democratic or citizen note," which has caused a large proportion of writers to write "for the greatest good of the greatest number." The book is divided into four main parts: The Colonial period (1607-1764); the Revolutionary period (1765-1788); the formative period (1780-1829); and the sectional period (180-1865.) A brief conclusion sketches the conditions of literature from the close of the Civil War to the present day—no attempt being made to criticise living authors. Bioliography (11 p.).

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the Publishers' Weekly solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the Publishers' Weekly is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

ENGLISH NOVELS AND AMERICAN PUBLISHERS.

More than fifty years ago Emerson wrote in his "English Traits": "A sensible Englishman once said to me, 'As long as you do not grant us copyright we shall have the teaching of you.' That is to say, as long as the Americans could steal the works of British authors, their natural talent had no chance." The London Publishers' Circular is reminded of this prophecy in connection with an interview on the English novel in America, from Mr. George Haven Putnam, printed in the London Daily Chronicle of May 8, which we reprint in part elsewhere.

In its May issue The Bookman gave a table, reprinted in The Publishers' Weekly of May 2, presenting the comparative record of the best-selling books from 1895 to 1902, inclusive, which has an interesting bearing on this question. Of twenty-seven works of fiction, (excluding three books of "Mr. Dooley" included in the schedule,) six only were of foreign origin. The list was headed by Sienkiewicz's "Quo Vadis," of Polish origin, as on the whole the best seller in that period, and it is interesting to note that this was first brought to the attention of English-speaking readers through an American translation. The other five were English-one of Watson, two of Gilbert Parker, one of Rudyard Kipling, and one of Hall Caine. The remaining twenty-one were all American, and were for the most part by new and younger writers, most of whom were not known by name when the International Copyright Law was passed in 1891.

It is always difficult to trace the direct or even indirect relation between works of literature and popular demand or money recom-The great works were not written with a view to pecuniary compensation, although Shakespeare's plays doubtless had a proximate cause in the opportunities offered by the Globe Theatre or the Inns of Court for their presentation. Yet it is nevertheless true that a considerable proportion of good writing, if not of great writing, is called forth by popular demand expressed in money terms; and this demand for American fiction has certainly followed the enactment of the International Copyright Law. It is possible that these books might have been written and had large sale without that law, but the indications are that the new conditions of the American literary market which resulted from that enactment have been in large measure the opportunity for American writers.

Probably a distinction is to be made between the great works of the masters of literature, geniuses who must write whether or no, and the less important yet desirable work of the members of the literary profession who earn their living by doing good work in meeting the demand of their generation, if not contributing to the literature of all time. As Mr. Putnam accurately points out, it is not the great English authors whose vogue in the American market has been lessened, and it is probably right here that the influence of international copyright in America has been most fully felt. A dozen years ago there was a deluge of fairly good English fiction to be had without the asking, and the competition of American publishers was largely in hurrying before the public English novels in which there was no property right and no protection of law, and on which the returns were correspondingly uncertain. The English novelists naturally looked forward to better returns from the American market when they had something which they could sell to the American publisher and which he could buy with the protection of law for his own sales. The foremost people got this protection, but the other writers found their market slipping away. A new generation of writers arose in America who did their work quite as well as the average English author, perhaps better, and who had the natural advantage of the home market. The International Copyright Law has not produced a George Eliot-nor will any merely legal condition ever effect such great achievement. But lesser results. and on the whole good results, are the more or less direct consequence of the protection of property rights in literary product. The "big seller" is indeed directly conditioned on the International Copyright Law. That law made it worth while for publishers to spend a great deal of money in emphasizing to the public a popular book. Doubtless this advertising business was overdone and to some extent a forced sale secured. There are signs of a reaction from this method of selling in large type, which reached its extreme when theatre posters on the bill-boards were replaced by advertisements of popular novels. But no discreditable literature, either in the moral or in the literary sense, has been foisted on the American public in this way; and while there may be reason to lament the absence of great novels of the day, there is reason to rejoice at the high average of intelligent literary product which has been notable in America in the past ten or twelve years.

WE are at work on "The American Educational Catalogue," for 1903, which will form the issue of The Publishers' Weekly for July 25. This catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers, with the special imprint of the dealer, at a merely nominal price per hundred copies. Dealers who contemplate using a small edition, and who have not already placed their orders, are requested to communicate with this office at the earliest possible moment, because after the main edition is printed off it will be impossible to accommodate orders for any but large lots.

GERMAN BOOK PRODUCTION IN 1902.

THE REPORTED DECLINE OF THE ENGLISH NOVEL IN AMERICA.

THE London Publishers' Circular in its issue for May 16 prints the following article:

"The Daily Chronicle, which has a warm corner in its heart for all literary matters, has been interviewing Mr. George Haven Putnam on the position of the English novel in America. As we long ago pointed out, the reason for the decline of the ordinary English novel in America is the great increase of the ordinary American novel, due, in great measure, to the International Copyright Act. We give a few extracts from the interview in the Daily Chronicle of May 8.

"'English novelists who are at the top of the tree will always be largely read in America also, and they need not be disturbed in their minds. I suppose Mrs. Humphry Ward's last story has really sold more copies in America than in England. We may, then, leave the exceptional author and the exceptional story aside altogether. Let us consider the bulk of good fiction, by which I mean novels of the second and third order in point of sale. Americans have been taking more and more to novels which have to do with their own country, and which, therefore, have a familiar atmosphere. That is natural enough, and so in a choice between two stories of equal literary quality the American one gets first. It is very difficult for anybody living in America to grasp the local color of France or Germany or Austria. For that reason few Continental novelists find much vogue in America—only the masters. Of course, it is quite different in regard to England, but it is the liking for the American novel—for American color, motives of action and characterization—that has told against English fiction.'

'One way or another,' he remarked, 'there has, as I gather from many quarters, been too much fiction recently on the American market. The output of it, and it may be of literature as a whole, has increased even faster than the reading public has grown. booksellers have found themselves loaded up. say, with too many copies of some much-advertised book, and there has been a certain reaction on the whole trade. But notwithstanding the fact that American publishers have been getting more and more discouraged. English authors have shown little disposition to modify the conditions attaching to their American rights. An American writer does not—I am speaking broadly—seek big sums down in advance. He is content to take his profit when it has been earned. To give an amount in advance for an English novel of the second or third class is a lottery at which the American publisher rather shies, especially having regard to the expense of production and other trade conditions in America. would take the book gladly, and do his best with it, if it were not a question of first paying what it may or may not earn. That he regards as too speculative altogether, unless the book is by somebody whose name is an absolute guarantee for circulation. Now this method of advance payments must tend to keep English books out of the American market which otherwise would get there, and so it is an element in the lesser vogue—because of the lesser supply—that English fiction is having in America.'

"Since this was in type," the editor of the Publishers' Circular concludes, "we came across the following interesting prophecy recorded by Emerson in his delightful 'English Traits,' written more than fifty years ago: 'A sensible Englishman once said to me, "As long as you do not grant us copyright we shall have the teaching of you." That is to say, as long as the Americans could steal the works of British authors, their natural talent had no chance."

BOOKSELLERS' "READING CLUBS."

A. E. Huestis, manager of the Bain Book and Stationery Company, of Toronto, sends us the following description of a "Reading Club," or circulating library, established by his firm and successfully carried out for some five or six years:

 Entrance fee, 50c. per year.
 "Reading Club" fee, per week—10 c. per volume, payable strictly in advance.

3. Books kept out over seven days-10c.

per week extra.

4. Books kept out over three weeks will be charged up to subscriber-less the fee paid on taking out the book.

5. Books must be returned in good order. 6. Books cannot be delivered by us.

7. Any book on the shelves to the value of

$1.50 may be taken out. 8. Books with pages turned down or torn cannot be returned and must be paid for. 9. It is expected that members will take out books regularly, otherwise they forfeit membership.

10. Books are not transferable.

We open up a small ledger giving each subscriber a page account—debiting each book as issued and duly crediting same when returned.

We have a printed paper book-cover folder which is put on every book when taken out with "Bain Book Co. Reading Club," etc., on the front, an advertisement on back, and inside on the fold is printed the terms of membership, followed by the words: "This book was taken out.......and must be returned within seven days"—the blank space being duly stamped with a date-stamp.

We have a membership of 300—which is at present the limit-and applications for membership are being received every day and placed on a waiting list.

With proper care and a careful selection of members, a well-bound cloth book can be read ten or fifteen times before we put it out on our bargain table to sell at 50c. each as shop-worn books. We do not let out paperbound novels.

Members of the "Reading Club" may select any book to the value of $1.50 from the general shelves of our store. We frequently sell a book to an outsider which has been read three to five times, at full retail price, but when showing signs of wear we frequently make some reduction in the selling price.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY PROSPEROUS.

According to its seventy-eighth annual report, just published, the American Tract Society has had a most prosperous year; indeed, never since the erection of the new building, eight years ago, has the society's financial condition been so satisfactory; and the new year begins with a revenue from rentals which will yield a considerable sum available as a sinking fund.

New publications, distinct from periodicals, brought out by the society during the year were eighty-five, of which fifty-six were volumes and twenty-nine tracts.

The society is now publishing seven periodicals—four in English, two in German and one in Spanish. The aggregate circulation of these periodicals during the year has been

3,090,000

"The Gospel truth," says the report, "has been published in 155 languages or dialects. Colporteurs have made something like 15,-166,000 family visits, and left in their homes by sale and grant between 16,000,000 and 17,000,000 volumes. The society has expended in its twenty-seven years in creating a Christian literature for Turkey, including the Armenians and Jews, and for Greece, $117,-799.48 in cash grants."

SIX BEST-SELLING BOOKS, MAY-JUNE.

According to The Bookman, the six books which have sold best in the order of demand between May and June are:

I. Lady Rose's Daughter. Ward. (Har-. 2. Lovey Mary. Hogan. (Century Co.)

3. Under the Rose. Isham. (Bobbs-Merrill Co.) 4. Darrel of the Blessed Isles. Bacheller.

(Lothrop.) 5. (The Filigree Ball. Green. (Bobbs-

6. Wee Macgreegor. Bell.... "Through an arithmetical error," the editor of The Bookman explains in the July issue, "sixth place in the June Bookman was given to 'Darrel of the Blessed Isles,' which was credited with 37 points. That place, however, belonged properly to Anna Kather-That place, ine Green's 'The Filigree Ball,' published We find by the Bobbs-Merrill Company. We find that the lists should have given 'The Filigree Ball' 43 points."

DIRECTORY PUBLISHER IS FREED.

JUDGE LACOMBE, in the United States Circuit Court, New York, on June 24, ordered the release of J. Power Fallon, a directory publisher, confined in Ludlow Street Jail for two months under a sentence of thirty days and a fine of $1000 for contempt of court. Fallon's alleged offense was in having substituted for sheets of his directory, on which the Chicago Directory Company and the Trow Directory Company based infringement suits, other pages which would not incriminate his concern, the intent being to deceive the court.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLER AND HIS CRITICS.
To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Your editorial in the issue of the 20th inst., "The Bookseller and His Critics," is both just and admirable; but there is one vital point in the 20th century bookseller's case upon which you do not touch.

The British reading public asks too much of the bookseller. The English bookbuyer will have no dealings with the bookseller, unless at threepence off in the shilling, and even then he denounces his "uninterested attitude" and demands bookish knowledge thrown in, gratis, with this beggarly business. How can a dealer in books or in any other merchandise feel an interest in a business in which there is no profit? The fact is in Great Britain the provincial bookseller is obliged to eke out an existence by adding stationery and fancy goods to his stock, and he is no longer a first-class bookseller, there being no paying inducement for him to be such.

In this country the bookbuyer is fast losing touch with the accomplished bookseller, whose place is being filled by the "saleslady," who to-day dispenses tapes, kid gloves and towels, and to-morrow books, and is quite ignorant of books. Even the bookseller is a "laborer worthy of his hire," and if you do not grant him this, he must cease to be.

"The Bookshops Limited" fails properly to state the book situation in England; and if its promoters really mean legitimate business and not the foisting off of stock on an innocent public, they must fail, simply because the retail book business even "under the management of men who really know something about books," at cut prices, cannot be made to pay, and the scheme must end in ruin.

HENRY CAREY BAIRD. PHILADELPHIA, June 23, 1903.

OBITUARY NOTES.

W. B. Scott, who for thirty years was in the book business at Geneva, N. Y., died May 30, aged seventy-seven. Mr. Scott had not for some years given much of his personal attention to business, his store having been in charge of one of his daughters, who continues the business.

David H. Mason, a well-known writer on protective tariff, died at Chicago, Ill., June 17. He was a resident of Chicago since 1867, and until 1898 was engaged in journalistic work. For several years he was editor-in-chief of the Chicago Republican; then he became tariff editor of the Journal of Commerce, and in 1872 he joined the staff of the Inter-Ocean, In 1898 he obtained a position in the postoffice, which he held until his death. He wrote a number of pamphlets on the tariff question, the best known of which is "A Short Tariff History of the United States," which was published in 1884.

Mrs. Eliza Boardman Burnz, one of the pioneer spelling reformers in this country, died at Walters Park, Pa., June 22. Mrs. Burnz, whose name was Burns before she joined the ranks of the spelling reformers, was born at Rayne, Essex County, Eng., October 31, 1823. She came to this country when fourteen years old and settled in Pulaski, Tenn., where she became a teacher. She developed the Burnz system of stenography, and in 1875 obtained permission from Peter Cooper, against the advice of his trustees, to open a room in his institute in which to teach shorthand to young women. There were not at that time more than ten women stenographers in New York. She wrote several books on her system of stenography.

The Rev. Hugh Macmillan, D.D., LL.D., died at Edinburgh, May 24 at the age of seventy, having been born September 17, 1833, at Aberfeldy, Perthshire. He was the author of a number of religious books that have had wide circulation. He had travelled considerably, and was a keen student of natural life, and had great facility in using his studies for religious teaching. He published "First Forms of Vegetation" in 1861; six years later came his "Bible Teachings in Nature," and met with great success. His other books include "Holidays in High Lands," "The Ministry of Nature," "The Garden and the City," "The Sabbath of the Fields," "Roman Mosaics," "The Daisies of Nazareth," "The Clock of Nature," and many similar works.

Major James Burton Pond, the well-known manager of lecturers, died June 21, at his home in Jersey City. His death was due to heart trouble, resulting from shock following the amputation of his right leg at the knee on Wednesday, June 17. Major Pond was born at Cuba, Allegany County, N. Y., June 11, 1838. With his parents he emigrated to Lake County, Ill., in 1844, and to Alto, Fond du Lac County, Wis., in 1847. He worked on his father's farm until his fourteenth year, when he apprenticed himself to the printer of The Fountain City Herald at Fond du Lac. Having "served his time," in 1856, he took the road as a journeyman printer, returning in 1860 to Green Lake County, Wis., to publish The Markesan Journal. In 1861 he closed his printing office and enlisted in the Third Wisconsin Cavalry, serving four years. He was mustered out a major in command of the third battalion of his regiment. For his bravery at Baxter's Spring, Kansas, in which 101 out of 118 in his command lost their lives, the Government awarded him a Medal of Honor. After the war he engaged in mercantile business until 1874 when, with George Hathaway, he purchased the Redpath Lyceum Bureau in Boston, the partnership continuing three years. Major Pond during his career was closely associated with many of the leading lights of the pulpit, including Emerson, Wendell Phillips, Gough, Talmage, Mark Twain, and Henry Ward Beecher, with whom, from 1876 to 1887, he travelled over three hundred thousand miles. He was the author of an interesting little book entitled "Pioneer Boyhood"; also, "A Summer in England with Henry Ward Beecher," "Across the Continent with Mark Twain," and "Eccentricities of Genuis." Major Pond was a man of an unusually even temperament and always, under the most trying circumstances. in the happiest humor. He was particularly well disposed to the booktrade, and always ready to offer his services at their entertainments free of all charges.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

DENMARK IN THE BERNE COPYRIGHT CONVENTION.

KING CHRISTIAN of Denmark, on June 20, issued a decree declaring the adherence of Denmark to the Berne Copyright Convention of 1886, to become operative July 1. The Danish Government will allow copyright on literary and artistic works of the subjects of countries signatory to the Berne Convention, even on works not issued by Danish publishers.

PROTECTION FOR GERMAN MUSIC PUBLISHERS.

At the annual meeting of the German publishers of music at Leipzig, last month, it was reported that the official bureau in New York secured during 1902 copyright on 1776 musical productions for 128 firms. The publishers recognizing the importance of this protection, presented a counter petition to that of the book publishers, addressed to the department of foreign affairs, emphasizing the necessity of maintaining as well as of enlarging and strengthening this protection.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

The author of the amusing book of "Perverted Proverbs," published by Harper & Brothers, who writes under the pseudonym of "Colonel D. Streamer," is Captain Harry Graham, aide-de-camp to the Governor-General of Canada.

E. J. Carpenter, author of "The American Advance," recently published by John Lane, is at work upon an elaborate history of the Island of Crete, a subject that has been much in the public eye since the Eastern question has assumed such considerable proportions in Western politics.

It is reported, on the authority of one who claims to know, that the "Kempton-Wace Letters," recently published by the Macmillan Company, are the joint work of Jack London and Annie Stransky. Jack London, the young Californian with socialistic tendencies, who is well known through his clever stories and other literary work, is said to have written the Wace letters; Miss Stransky, a young woman well known in so-called "liberal" circles in the East, who, however, has lived for a number of years on the Pacific coast, is said to have written the Kempton and Hester letters.

Mr. Tritle has been with Stephen Crane for twelve years in all, and has a thorough acquaintance with the retail book and stationery trade.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE AINSLEE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, have just published a new novel by Edgar Saltus, entitled "Purple and Fine Women."

D. APPLETON & Co. announce definitely that they have secured the American rights to John Oliver Hobbes's forthcoming novel, "The Vineyard."

BOERICKE & TAFEL, Philadelphia, have published a little handbook on the treatment of dogs in sickness, compiled by E. P. Anschütz and revised by Dr. James T. Kent.

THE DICKERMAN PUBLISHING Co., Boston, have just published a story of rural life in a Yankee district, entitled "Ike Glidden in Maine," by A. D. McFaul, with nine full-page illustrations.

THE NEW TALMUD PUBLISHING COMPANY, 1117 Simpson Street (Borough of the Bronx), New York, will bring out in the fall "The History of the Talmud from 200 B.C. to the Present Time."

KEGAN PAUL, TRENCH, TRUBNER & Co. will shortly remove from their long-established quarters in Charing Cross Road to the Dryden House, at 43 Gerrard Street, Soho, where Dryden lived and died.

The regular yearly display of the publications of the Lothrop Publishing Company will be made at the Palmer House, Chicago, Room 454, from July 1 to 15. Mr. L. W. Adams will be in charge.

Howard Sutherland's English version of the beautiful Greek myth, Procris and Cephalus, is being printed at the Literary Collector Press, Greenwich, Connecticut. The edition will be limited to one hundred and ten copies.

The De La More Press has made arrangements with the Oxford University Press to publish a facsimile of the Thymne edition of Chaucer's collected works published in 1532, with an introduction by Professor Walter W. Skeat.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY will publish shortly a novel entitled "Sons of Vengeance," that pictures just such conditions as are bringing Breathitt County, its courts, and, incidentally, the State of Kentucky, into unenviable reputation.

The New Amsterdam Book Company announce a work entitled "Hillside, Rock and Dale, Bird Life Pictured with Pen and Camera," by Oliver G. Pike. The volume includes a colored frontispiece and 110 photographic pictures made directly from nature.

AQUILA KEMPSTER, the author of "The Mark," a new novel of Eastern mysticism and Hindu magic, announced by Doubleday, Page & Co. for publication in the late summer or early fall, is a New York artist, and this is his first novel. His full name is James Aquila Kempster.

H. L. WILSON'S striking novel, "The Spenders," published by the Lothrop Publishing Company, of Boston, and now in its fifty-fourth thousand, has been dramatized by Edward Rose for William H. Crane, who will open with the play at the Savoy Theatre, New York, next September.

Ferris & Leach, Philadelphia, have in preparation a work on "The Independence of the South American Republics: a Study in Recognition and Foreign Policy," by Frederic L. Paxson, who has had access to the archives of the British Foreign office, the Department of State and of the Adams family.

McClure, Phillips & Company are about to issue a third edition of Dr. Charles A. Eastman's autobiographical story of Indian life, "Indian Boyhood." Since its issue, less than a year ago, it has steadily climbed in popularity, and has held its place continuously as one of the books most in demand at libraries.

A. C. McClurg & Co. announce a book with the startling title of "Famous Assassinations." The volume will give accounts of some thirty of the most significant political assassinations in the world's history, beginning with the murder of Philip of Macedon in 336 B.C., and ending with the slaying of our own President in 1901.

It may be necessary or not to pass the word along to the careless author who left a mysterious manuscript of a historical novel of the seventeenth century period, packed in a red box, at John Lane's London office, omitting to leave his address, that if he will but communicate with the "anxious publisher" he will hear something to his advantage.

THE TRUTH SEEKER COMPANY, New York, will publish next month a book on the Bible, by John E. Remsburg, which contains eleven chapters on the authenticity of the Bible; thirteen on the credibility of the Bible; ten on the morality of the Bible, and an Appendix in which Mr. Remsburg argues against the divine origin and in favor of the human origin of the Bible.

A. C. McClurg & Co. are making arrangements to bring out during the autumn, in portfolio form, reproductions of some of the delightful sketches of girls' heads, drawn in red chalk and charcoal, by Miss Hazel Martyn, a well-known Chicago society woman. These sketches when exhibited this spring won great praise from the professional critics for their clever and original treatment.

James Pott & Co. will publish in the fall a volume entitled "Along Four-footed Trails," by Miss Ruth A.. Cook, formerly assistant in Nature Work, Children's Museum, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences. The work will deal specially with western animals, among them the jack-rabbit, prong-horn, prairie dog, gopher, and buffalo. The book will be illustrated by Miss Mabel Williamson.

CLEOPAS KUNENE, of Natal, South Africa, has applied to Doubleday, Page & Co. for permission to translate Booker T. Washington's autobiography, "Up from Slavery," into the Zulu language for the benefit of those who read the language and are trying to better the condition of the masses of their countrymen, who, the author says, "are still lolling and weltering in darkness and ignorance and poverty."

ALBERT F. Brown, a clerk in the employ of Charles Scribner's Sons, was arrested on June 23, charged with stealing books. According to the police, he confessed that he had been taking books for the last five weeks. He said that he got into fast company soon after his arrival in this city, about six weeks ago, and needed money to "keep his end up." He then began taking a few books at a time, which he easily disposed of.

Cupples & Leon are now located in their new and more commodious offices, in Room 918, at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York. For the coming holiday season their lines are especially attractive. Their numerous friends among the buyers will always find the members of the firm and their assistants ready to show them every courtesy. They are exclusive representatives for DeWolfe, Fiske & Co., of Boston, and also eastern representatives for the Madison Book Co., of Chicago.

Harper & Brothers will publish in the autumn a novel by Matilde Serao, entitled "Sister Joan of the Cross." It is the story of a poor little nun who after forty years at a convent is turned out into the world because the order to which she belongs is dissolved by the government. Although the scene is laid in Italy and not in France, the action of the story is probably suggestive of what for the last few months has been actually taking place in the latter country.

In May, 1653, there appeared the following notice in the Mercurius Politicus: "There is published a Booke of eighteen-pence, called the Compleat Angler, or the Contemplative Man's Recreation. Being a discourse of fish and fishing not unworthy the perusal of most anglers. Sold by Richard Marriot, in S. Dunstan's Churchyard, Fleet Street." Nearly two hundred years afterwards, in 1847, this book sold for £12, and twenty years later for £50. Now comes the news that the Sothebys sold a copy of the 1653 edition in London the other day for £405.

The Outlook Company will publish in the fall a companion volume to "The Story Book of Little People," entitled "The Outlook Fairy Book," the stories in which are collected from a number of sources, old and new, including many of the old favorites by Andersen, the brothers Grimm, and Perrault, together with tales from French and German sources which have never before appeared in English. A special feature of the book will be the illustrations, which are being drawn by J. Conacher. They have also in press "The Forest," by Stewart Edward White, an account of his exploration of the Giant Redwoods.

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY will publish shortly a little book with the catchy title, "Reflections of the Morning After," which will contain clever maxims, epigrams and sayings appealing to the gentler sex as well as to club men. They will bring out early in August a work entitled "Around the Caribbean and Across Panama," by Dr. Francis C. Nicholas, for a number of years mining expert for several mining and exploring companies in South America. Several chapters of Dr. Nicholas's book will be devoted to the Nicaraugua and Panama Canals. His accounts of the Indian tribes around the Isthmus, it is claimed, will reveal news even to archæologists.

The Consolidated Retail Booksellers will bring out September 5, with the imprint of The Book-Lover Press, a novel entitled "The Red-Keggers," described as "a vigorous story of a lumbering and farming community in Michigan, covering the period from 1868 to the end of 1871." It is the work of Eugene Thwing, who for twenty years has been connected with the publishing house of Funk & Wagnalls Company, formerly as editor on one of their periodicals, and for the last ten years as general literary critic and advertising manager. Mr. Thwing has written many shorter articles and stories, but the present work is his first long novel. The book will have ten full-page drawings by W. Herbert Dunton.

The Macmillan Company will publish in September the first volume of an illustrated editions of Bryan's "Dictionary of Painters and Engravers," which will give upwards of five hundred new biographies of the eminent painters and engravers who died since the last edition was published in 1884-89. The five volumes have been revised throughout and much augmented under the supervision of Dr. George C. Williamson. They have also under way "Quebec—the Place and the People," a two-volume work upon which Sir Gilbert Parker has been engaged for a number of years; also, "The Tenement House Conditions in New York," which will contain the Report of the Tenement House Commission of 1900, prepared under the direction of Mr.

De Forest, Commissioner of Charities in New York City.

Dana Estes & Company announce an interesting book entitled "Some Famous American Schools," by Oscar Fay Adams, describing the origin, history and tradition of such noted American schools for boys as Philips Exeter, Philips Andover, St. Paul's, Lawrenceville and others, with more than fifty half-tones from photographs. They have also in preparation "The Year's Festivals," by Helen Philbrook Patten, a gift book, giving in readable, popular style the history, legends and traditions of the most famous anniversaries and holidays, with a number of illustrations reproduced from famous paintings: "A Hermit's Wild Friends, or, Eighteen Years in the Woods," by Mason A. Walton, a volume of animal and woodcraft lore by the well-known hermit of Gloucester, Mass.; also, "Whitewash," by Ethel Watts Mumford, author of "Partners," etc., a story of fashionable society in New York, with a dash of Bohemia thrown in.

DR. ALICE BUNKER STOCKHAM, president of the Stockham Publishing Company of Chicago, on the 13th inst., celebrated the twentieth anniversary of her entrance into the publishing After she had written her book, business. "Tokology," she was unable to find a publisher for it. Finally she decided to follow the advice of a number of her friends and brought out an edition of 500 copies of the book at her own expense, with the imprint of the Sanitary Publishing Company, 11 La Salle Street, Chicago. From that humble beginning has grown quite an important publishing and bookselling business. Nearly half a million of "Tokology" have been sold, and the book has been translated into several languages-Tolstoy making the Russian translation. She has also written and published "Koradine," a book for young girls; "Karezza," a book for men; "Tolstoy, a Man of Peace;" "The Lover's World," etc., all of which have had large sales. Dr. Stockham also publishes The Kindergarten Magaz-CASSELL & COMPANY, Limited, have ready advance samples of an exceptionally meritorious line of "'Art Proof' Calendars" which they will issue this year. The fundamental ideal pervading their output is the faithful reproduction by the new color-photo process of a selection from a number of fine modern paintings, each subject being reproduced direct from the painting, preserving the full technique, qualities and colors of the original. An additional and unique attraction is a printed protective tissue accompanying each proof giving a history and description of the original painting. A further recommendation is the low price. One series of six styles at $1.50 each consisting of four mounted proofs with printed tissues, tied with ribbon and boxed. Another series at 50 cents gives a selection from 15 mounted proofs and tissues protected in an artistic envelope. Albert E. Turner, their representative, will show samples of these calendars during the book fair in Chicago, at the Palmer House, July 4 and the following days. Mr. Turner will also show samples of their regular publications.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five non-pareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. Four Notable Books

Some Famous American Schools

By OSCAR FAY ADAMS

Author of "The Story of Jane Austen's Life," Etc.

A full description of the foundation, history and traditions of such noted American boys' schools as Philips Exeter, Philips Andover, St. Paul's, Lawrenceville, St. Mark's, and others. The book is written in a popular, anecdotal style, and includes accounts of famous events in the academic and athletic life of the schools represented, and anecdotes of the undergraduate days of famous alumni. This is the first and only publication in its especial field, and is the result of untiring research and correspondence. The book is illustrated with more than fifty half-tones from photographs. Illustrated, respondence. The book is cloth, 12mo, $1.20 net.

The Year's Festivals

By HELEN PHILBROOK PATTEN

A new gift-book giving in readable, popular style the history, legends and traditions of the most famous anniversaries and holidays, including New Year's, Twelfth Night, St. Valentine's Day, All Fools' Day, Easter, May Day, All Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving and Christmas. The amount of fascinating information contained in this book, much of it derived from sources which are not generally accessible, will be a surprise to the reader. Anecdote, song, folk-lore, history and fiction, have all been laid under contribution, and the result is a book which is certain to become a standard authority in its class. It is illustrated with full-page half-tones from celebrated paintings. Cloth, 12mo, $1.00 net.

A Hermit's Wild Friends

Or, Eighteen Years in the Woods By MASON A. WALTON

A volume of animal and wood-craft lore, by the well-known hermit of Gloucester, Massachusetts. Mr. Walton has contributed for years to "Forest and Stream" under the pseudonym of "Hermit," and has also written for "Youth's Companion," and other periodicals, besides corresponding with distinguished naturalists the world over. Thousands of persons have penetrated to his log cabin in the woods, where he has lived entirely alone for nearly a score of years. No one living has probably more intimate knowledge of the haunts and habits of the shyer species of animals, as well as plants. This important work will be illustrated in part by the author's photographs of wild creatures which have come under his own observation. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50 net.

Whitewash

By ETHEL WATTS MUMFORD

Author of "A Mercenary Marriage," "Partners," Etc.

A realistic novel describing fashionable society in New York, with a dash of Bohemia thrown in. The style is crisp and direct, and the plot exciting. The mysterious robbery and the exposure of the clever criminal, furnish the main motive, but the book is far more than a very original detective story; it has the love interest, character development and many sided plot which one looks for in a well-proportioned novel. The characters in the story are frankly worldly, but likable, and in the heroine we have one of the most fascinating creations of recent fiction. "Whiteash" attracted unusual attention on its first publication as a serial in the "Smart Set." The illustrations by A. G. Learned, whose drawings for the "Ladies' Home Journal" and other magazines are so favorably known, interpret as well as embellish the text of this striking story. A cordial welcome is already assured a book so amusing, wholesome and brilliant. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50 net.

The Best Key to Educational Books.

THE

American Educational Catalogue

For 1903,

whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its thirty-fourth year, and that

Thousands of Copies are Sold Every Season,

claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most complete order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue is made entirely new each year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and all new books (ready or to be ready for the Fall) are added in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than too copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS:

Imprint edition—without publishers' advertisements:

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00; per 1000, $40.00.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or for $1.00 if plate is sent.

Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "The Publishers' Weekly" will be supplied at 50 cents per copy in leatherette.

Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY,

PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

The Annual American Catalogue

CUMULATED

1900-1902

The Annual American Catalogue, Cumulated, 1900–1902, includes in one alphabet the short-title lists of the books of 1900, 1901 and 1902, giving information of the books recorded by author, title, subject and series. This cumulation, which is to continue annually until a five-yearly volume of "The American Catalogue" in its new shape is reached, has been generally accepted as a desirable, practical working tool for the trade, supplementing as it will do, from year to year, the last issue of the five-yearly "American Catalogue," without the need of consulting several alphabets in several volumes.

ENGLISH REFERENCE CATALOGUE

The Reference Catalogue of Current English Literature, better known as "Whitaker's Reference List," is the English work corresponding to the American "Publishers' Trade List Annual." It contains the lists of 179 of the most important English publishers and is prefixed by an index containing 135,000 references to the books catalogued. It is thus invaluable in libraries and bookstores as the most convenient and complete key to current English books. The present issue is in two volumes, of about 5000 pages, strongly bound in half leather at the price of $5.00 net. The edition is limited, and few copies remain unsold. American orders should be sent to the Publishers' Weekly 298 Broadway, New York.
